

Eléonore Ozanne

'Women walking, The City, at Night' is an initiative begun in the last three years by Eléonore Ozanne. She and Andrew Stuck are walking briskly on a grit-covered path that runs beside a lake in the resort town of Banyoles, 20 km north of Girona in Spain. They have only recently met as they are both attending a Walking Arts and Relational Geographies conference. 22'01" 10.3MB

Notes from the podcast interview by Andrew Stuck: Recorded beside the lake at Banyoles, Catalonia, Spain in July 2024 and published in July 2024. <http://www.talkingwalking.net>

Eléonore suggests two walks:

1. Join a Harvest moon walk as part of Women walk, The City, At Night
2. Slow down to experience another layer of the place where you are living
